

In 1998, a new company started to provide computer service to individuals and businesses in central Illinois. Its name, PC Guy. Over the last 20+ years we've serviced countless computers and networks. But also in the last 20 years, many things have changed with technology. The computer and Internet have revolutionized the way we do business and given our customers new opportunities to be connected as well as creating new challenges with security, stability, and a need for constant connection.

Our goal has always been to connect with our customers (relationally) and keep them connected (technologically) for the longterm. As technology and the Internet have grown and expanded, so have we! We now support companies big and small, all across the midwest, on-site and remotely. We provide many new solutions and technologies for our customers keeping them connected.

With this incredible growth, we knew it was time to change our name to embrace this exciting expansion. We are now Stability IT Solutions. Though our name has changed, our core values have not. Our service area is bigger, our IT solutions and services expanded, but we still believe that connecting with you, our customer, and keeping you connected, is our number 1 priority.

Stability IT Solutions. Get connected, stay connected.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Jeff Corrington', with a stylized flourish at the end.

Jeff Corrington
CEO/Owner, Stability IT Solutions